A "Secession Record" Again

The "veteran" egotist who, during the rebellion, made in the San Francisco Democratic Press what he lately called, by a fortunate inadvertence, a "secession record," is in actual tribulation. He is spending whole columns in the effort to soften or explain away the more odious features of a "record" that like a certain celebrated ghost, will not "down." We are accused of misrepresenting the position he held at the time and he undertakes to prove this charge against us. We give a specimen of these charges. The following is one of the extracts which we attributed to him:

> We deny the power of the Federal Government, under the Constitution, to make war upon a State for the purpose of coercing such State into submission.

He denies that he wrote this, and then tells us what he did write. The person alluded to in the extract below was one of his brother Democratic editors in California:

> He denies the power of the Federal Government, under the Constitution, to make war upon a State for the purpose of coercing such State into submission, so do we.

Such is a specimen of the manner in which we are [illegible] of misrepresenting him!

He indignantly denies that he was a secessionist during the rebellion. As if a person who held the doctrine expressed in the above extract (which he confesses he wrote) could have been anything else than a secessionist! This one sentence is sufficient alone to convict him.

He asserts that the articles which he wrote in 1864, and from which we have quoted, were written to combat the doctrine of secession. The truth is they were written for quite another purpose. By denying the right of the Government to employ force to reduce the rebel States to submission, he admitted the right of secession. The fact of secession he recognized by declaring that the Southern people had become "aliens." Though thus virtually admitting the right, and expressly admitting the fact of [illegible] undertook to show that his party in California ought not to take sides openly with the rebels. Some of his Democratic brethren insisted that a decent regard for consistency demanded that this step should be taken, but Beriah regarded discretion as the better part of valor. This was the controversy in which the articles we have quoted from originated. They were not written to combat the doctrine of secession, but to show that the California "Democracy" ought not openly to join the rebels. He himself, in the Press of March 18th, thus states the controversy [illegible] "—one of the Democratic [illegible] that it would make common cause with the public enemy; while we would maintain all our duties and obligations to the government under which we live." His position then, was this: He would not take up arms in aid of the rebellion, [illegible] he was convinced that it would be a very unsafe proceeding, but at the same time he denied the right of the Government to enforce its authority in the [illegible] States, and therefore was a secessionist. There is no sort of difference between the man who directly advocates the right of secession and the man who holds that the Government has no right to make war on a seceding State to reduce it to submission.

He quotes from the Democratic platform, adopted in California in 1864, to show that his party in that State opposed [illegible]. The platform adopted by that party in the same State in 1861, is a good deal more explicit, and therefore we cite a couple of resolutions from it:

> Resolved, That we are [illegible] to the employment of force by the General Government against the seceded States for the [illegible]
>
> Resolved, That we are in favor of the [illegible] of the Union upon [illegible] guarantees which will be acceptable to both sections of the Confederacy; but if that desirable consummation be [illegible], then we are in favor of the [illegible] of the independence of the Confederate States, and a treaty of amity and peace between them and the United States Government as the only alternative which will [illegible] the horrors of civil war and bring back peace and happiness to our distracted country.

This is in full accord with the "secession record" of the editor of the Herald, which is written in the Democratic Press.

As he has been thrown into such a state of excitement by the extracts we have already quoted from the paper which he controlled during the rebellion, we take this opportunity to continue them. As he informs his readers that he has never written anything which he is not ready to avow as his own, we present the following delectable extracts, assuring the reader that they are faithfully reported and that their author will not charge us with misquoting them. The following was written by him on the 13th of July, 1864:

> The [illegible] no war upon our [illegible], and their act of [illegible] no more affected the Government and the institutions of the fathers" than would the withdrawal of a portion of the stockholders affect the franchise of a corporation.

Isn't that delightful Union doctrine? No wonder its author is ruffled in temper when it is brought before him.

On the 28th of June, 1864, the following was published in the leading editorial of the Press.

> Those States (the seceded States) voluntarily entered into a compact, which by its terms was [illegible], and in re-assuming the powers which they had delegated to the general government, simply violated their portion of that agreement and [illegible] the same relations towards the adhering States which they [illegible] before the Union was formed. This was no individual act of rebellion or insurrection, but the act of [illegible] under the same forms of sovereignty — "the States and the people," — as was the act of entering into the compact, and the remedy is therefore the same as all nations, and provided for in no other way. If we had a right to war [illegible] those States for breach of treaty before the States were confederated, we have the same right now, and no other. If we had a right to compel them to join the Union by conquest and subjugation, we have a right to conquer and hold them by military rule now, and no other right. The [illegible] of [illegible] the military power of the Government to suppress rebellion, or put down insurrection, or compelling the return of the [illegible] States to the Union by force of arms is all false, and aimed at the principles on which the Government was founded.

Surely this is grand Union doctrine! It well illustrates the secession proclivities of the writer's party. "The principles on which the Union was founded," were in his opinion, that a State could remain in the Union so long as it chose, but was bound to remain no longer, and that any attempt on the part of the Government to compel a seceding State to return to its allegiance, was unconstitutional and destructive of the true ends of Government.

Quite in love with the rebel Government was Beriah at this time. On the 22d December, 1864, he wrote:

> But in comparing the Government of the Confederacy with our own we do not discover those acts of arbitrary disposition in the former which are so often cited as precedents for similar acts on the part of the Federal Government. * * * The tolerance of party differences by the Confederates represents them as a united people with a singleness of purpose and determination which can only be overcome by immensely superior force. It gives them a moral advantage which does much to overcome the physical disparity against them. As yet we have heard of no political bastiles and no suspension of newspapers by military authority, for mere party offences, in the Confederacy.

On the 20th of June this same writer declared that "Jeff Davis had not assailed a single principle of our Constitution."

Such was the position of the Democratic party in 1864. We may hereafter quote further from this "secession record." It is well to keep it before the people.

WHERE SHE FELL.—A Texas editor writing from the icy North to his paper to illustrate the rigors of the season, says: "Many persons have slipped up and fallen down," and that one lovely damsel, fell supinely upon her alma mater.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

[From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

The "reaction" against the Republicans still holds and utters its alarms and its warnings. There is at least this compensation for the loss of New York to the Republicans, and it is not a small one—it will put Congress and the party on their good behavior, [illegible] a sound Re[illegible] (not radical) policy, and will consolidate the party for Grant and a save next year. [illegible] is dead enough, but Republicanism still lives and has a future.

It is quite as we anticipated and predicted in Massachusetts. License law advocates have made a clean sweep of the State, and the Prohibitory and Constabulary laws must go by the board, under condemnation as antagonistic both to the interests of good morals and personal rights of citizens.

Ten thousand sermons, with a corresponding amount of praying for prohibition by clergymen of Massachusetts, seem to have had little effect. But our spiritual advisers must not rashly conclude that the people are given over to infidelity and vice. They will do well, on the contrary, to reconsider their own notions, as they may possibly come to see that the people are right, and to rely henceforth on Gospel rather than law, for [illegible]

But besides the general [illegible] of the [illegible] which has affected New York in common with the whole community, we have undoubtedly [illegible] in this State from the misconduct of some of the Republican officials in relation to the management of the canals. The party has been held responsible for these thieves and plunderers, though as soon as their villainy was detected they were promptly thrown overboard and new men put in their places.

But it is not alone from the misconduct of State officials that we have suffered in this election. The corruption of the last Legislature was a stink in the nostrils of the people, which doubtless repelled thousands of Republicans from the polls. We honor them for staying away, for though the corruption of the Democracy is ten fold, yea a hundred fold greater than what we have in our own party, that is no excuse for the Republican party, which before all things is bound to be pure and honest. Let us hope that this election will be a lesson to the party not to tolerate thieves and corruptionists under any pretence whatever.

UNDER THE LASH.—One would suppose that a lady whose blood is so aristocratic [illegible] and whose position as an author is so well [illegible] as in the case of the Hon. Mrs. Norton, would be content to remain silent under the most [illegible] criticism. Such is not the case, however. The lady was so irritated by a review of her novel of "Old Sir Douglass" in the London News, that she wrote a long letter confuting the criticism, from which letter we extract the following sharp [illegible]:

I have no doubt it is, as your reviewer represents it to be, a melancholy duty to peruse novel after novel for a series of years for the purpose of criticism. It must be a dreadful bore to any clever man, or even any man who is not clever, to be always devouring foolish books, especially when the toujours perdrix has in his opinion, such lamentable [illegible] and conventionality of composition. Still, it is also a dreadful bore and great discouragement to an author to be reviewed without being read. When Horace Walpole became blind and some friend suggested that he should engage a reader, that accomplished man replied, "I could easily get some one to read to me, but who can I get to skip for me as they are read?"

RATHER HEAVY.—A few nights [illegible] a party of young gentlemen in St. Joseph [illegible] a young lady. At the close of [illegible] performance, a card was dropped from a window by the young lady, upon which was written the following: Compliments of the young lady to Yankee Robinson's menagerie. The monkeys perform admirably.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 11, 1867.

The Railroad Imbroglio.

We have given place to a lengthy communication from Hillsboro on the railroad question, because the subject is one which merits the fullest discussion, and because the people in all parts of the State ought to know each others views and the views of different localities in relation to it. This communication, we are assured, represents the views of Washington county on the subject, and is therefore entitled to a respectful hearing. From various sources we learn that an effort is making in the counties on the west side of the river, and particularly in Washington, Yamhill and Polk, to take the initiative in building a road to traverse the central portions of those rich counties and have its northern terminus at Portland or on the river below. It is also said that the people are in earnest about the project and believe it will [illegible]; and our correspondent assures us that he and his neighbors have all subscribed to it to the extent of their ability. That these counties should desire a railroad is perfectly natural, and there is not a person in Portland or anywhere else so far as we know who does not desire the success of their enterprise. What means the Company propose [illegible] this work may have for carrying out this design we do not know; but we are perfectly sure, that the road they propose must be built by capital. Available in Oregon. If capital from abroad can be interested in it, of course it can be [illegible]. We think we [illegible] the views and [illegible] the motives of they who in these counties, and we are ready to [illegible] that they deserve high commendation for their efforts. They do not want to be "left out in the cold" in [illegible] these railroad arrangements, and so take a deep interest in pushing forward a project which, while it may [illegible] others, will also be of [illegible] to themselves. Each locality looks [illegible], and each is ready [illegible] to support them.

It is for the interest of the Willamette Valley, as a whole, that when a railroad is built it shall [illegible] its terminal. If [illegible] to a portion of the valley, [illegible] side of the [illegible] not be thus [illegible], as [illegible]. If so, then the only way would be to [illegible] line and have a [illegible] that they [illegible] the best portion of the [illegible] would [illegible] on [illegible] Portland to [illegible] route through [illegible] for Portland [illegible] of no advantage [illegible] or Marion, or to any section [illegible] of the State. If only one [illegible] to be located as [illegible] the valley as possible, as it [illegible] portion of [illegible] and both [illegible] body [illegible] to think [illegible] to oppose [illegible] are leading [illegible] position [illegible] that they are mistaken [illegible] But Portland must have that interest in [illegible] it would be if the route [illegible] this fact frankly and [illegible] its [illegible] so far as we have [illegible] Central [illegible] and [illegible] county [illegible] project [illegible] on the west side of the river [illegible] that the land [illegible] through this [illegible] will be of little or no value; and [illegible] the Company [illegible] and talks [illegible] will be first [illegible].

[illegible] of a direct road [illegible] to the [illegible]. As for the first, [illegible] time ago, be[illegible] the entire route is a [illegible]. The [illegible] to build this [illegible] by the business [illegible]. One would [illegible] that of the [illegible] this would be the very last one [illegible] to the Central [illegible] idea was that we could [illegible] with the East by [illegible]. A road [illegible] the head of this valley, and [illegible] fifty [illegible] more will bring [illegible] with the [illegible] line. To obtain [illegible] by any other route [illegible] than twice as long. In this view [illegible] we think that project worthy of [illegible] in Washington and Y[illegible] that in our judgment it would be [illegible] communi[illegible] Columbia river than to be united with [illegible] by a direct line, as they [illegible] their produce [illegible] north [illegible] whatever send [illegible] to San Francisco by sea at lower [illegible] by railroad.

THE [illegible].—Undoubtedly one of the [illegible] largely engage the [illegible] of Congress during the coming year will be [illegible] and adjustment of the [illegible] and fiscal machinery of the country. Two [illegible] to satisfy the demands of the people; the first is a rigidly economical man[illegible] of the [illegible] and a careful retrenchment [illegible] it is practicable; and the [illegible] collection of [illegible] which [illegible]. The people are [illegible] to pay the entire national [illegible] and as [illegible] this they [illegible] will be carefully and [illegible]. It is not surprising that a want [illegible] to some extent, [illegible] in the handling of these matters, [illegible] the nation and time has not yet [illegible] to give it experience, to [illegible] its own [illegible], and to adjust the [illegible] as will bring a revenue with the least inconvenience to the people. [illegible] and patience is necessary to bring [illegible] results. It devolves on C[illegible] matters, and we be[illegible] that body will so act upon them that the people will have little reason to complain of their [illegible] on this ground. A satisfactory [illegible] policy will cause the political measures of C[illegible] to be received with greater approbation, and that [illegible] could not do the country, itself, or the party which is responsible for its men[illegible] than by acting promptly and intelligently in [illegible].

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Storm in Northern California—Fatal Stage Accident.

YREKA, Dec. 10.—On the 8th the stage from the South was swept down Coffee Creek. One passenger, named Hamilton, a dentist, was lost; all the horses were lost, also the express box. Most of the mail was saved. The stage was found the next day about a mile down stream. Hamilton's body has not been recovered. The storm has been very severe the past three days; all the small streams are much swollen. No stage has arrived from the south for two days. On Scott Mountain considerable timber fell.

The telegraph line was badly broken but it is now in working order as far south as Trinity Center. A large force of repairers are now at work and we hope to establish communication with Sacramento to-night.

YREKA, Dec. 10.—A dispatch dated New York House, two o'clock P. M., says: The body of Dr. Hamilton was found opposite Myers' [illegible], in the Trinity river. All the mail has been found except the way bag. The treasure box has not been found.

Removal of the Capital of British Columbia.

Official news from England announces that the removal of the capital of British Columbia from New Westminster to Victoria has been decided upon.

FROM OLYMPIA.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 7, 1867.

Memorials were introduced in the House asking Congress to appropriate money for the erection of several lighthouses on important points on the Straits and Sound. Also for the establishment of a naval depot at some point on the Sound.

A joint resolution was passed authorizing both houses to meet in the Hall of the House on Monday, at 12 M., to hear the Governor's message.

Operations and Condition of the State Penitentiary.

Quarterly Report of Superintendent Berry, to the Hon. Samuel E. May, Secretary of State, for the quarter ending N[ov.] 30, 1867—Progress of Manufactures and Improvements—Number and Condition of Prisoners—Products, Finances, Etc.

The report gives in detail the difficulties necessarily encountered in establishing the chief business of the Prison, the manufacture of brick. Few of the men understood the process, which fact, together with the unfavorableness of the season, led many to think that the enterprise was a failure. Such is not the case, however, as appears from the statistics of Major Berry's report, from which we extract the following particulars:

BRICK-MAKING EXPERIMENT.

Commenced moulding June 10th, and produced only 6,000 a day, of an inferior quality. On the following day, 3,000. Machine proved a failure by [illegible], but the Superintendent kept on, and subsequently raised the number manufactured daily, to fourteen, eighteen, and at length twenty thousand, the men working ten hours a day.

VALUE OF LABOR.

The exact value of labor performed by prisoners is not easily arrived at, as the improvements are of a [illegible] character. The cash value of material [illegible] on the ground, is $3,240 less a slight [illegible] $40. More than half of this [illegible] has [illegible] on hand for next [illegible]. Wood on hand and contracted last spring, 1,035 cords, of which have been consumed [illegible]; leaving still on hand in the yard, 600.

FINANCIAL.

The financial condition of the Prison is some what better than last year. The Superintendent has on hand:

Articles for spring market, worth	3,800 00
[illegible] paid into [illegible]	3,076 50
Total	$11,165 00

REMARKS.

The Superintendent observes that the [illegible] number of prisoners, and the necessity of working them in various detachments, compel him to employ two or three extra guards during the winter. He is of opinion that the [illegible] of the institution have [illegible] the maximum, and that they will be [illegible] diminished by the judicious labor of the prisoners. We may add that Major Berry has [illegible] useful information in the [illegible] of the establishment, and is in a fair way to [illegible] an expensive [illegible] by the skillful and economical application of the Prison's productive [illegible].—Unionist.

THE SALT LAKE BRANCH.—Railroads being the talk just now, we copy the following from the Boise Stat[esman]:

There have just been completed at the Surveyor General's office a [illegible] of maps, copies of the surveys in the [illegible] and of official military surveys, and of the public survey of Oregon, showing the proposed route for the Idaho and Oregon branch of the Union Pacific road from Bear river to Umatilla. The correctness of the map cannot be doubted, [illegible] it is a copy of actual surveys and notes of surveys on file as public records. Mountains, rivers, valleys and distances are [illegible] fore not [illegible] into convenient relation to each other to make a favorable appearance on paper for the route. They are being made by order of some enterprising citizens of this city, who purpose taking a working interest in the matter to see if they cannot help the cause along. The course of the proposed route is almost a straight west by north west line from Bear river, touching Port Neuf, crossing Snake river near the mouth of Wood river, [illegible] Boise and Payette valleys, up Burnt river, and through the valleys of Baker, Union and Umatilla counties in Oregon. The distance is about five hundred miles. Between the point of intersection with the Pacific road, near City of Rocks and the foot of the Blue mountains there will be no steep grades at all nor heavy cuts. The pass of the Blue mountains is the easiest that can be made for the Pacific railroad, and the one that will be the least obstructed by snow.

A boastful Democratic "Chiv" from the State of Virginia, who does not live a thousand miles from Walla Walla, was once bragging about the general intelligence of the people of his State, when a statistical Yankee, who happened to be present, suggested that according to the United States Census, there was a large number of native born white adults in that State that could not read or write. "Adults adults," said the Chiv, "you can't play that on me, sir; for there is not an adult in the State of Virginia."

There is a Democrat in Columbia county, Oregon, who takes the OREGONIAN to get the Nasby letters. He wants genuine Democratic doctrine, and evinces rare judgment in making the selection.

On the arrival of Mrs. Jeff. Davis at Rutland (Vt.), recently, on her way to Montreal, the Copperheads of the town brought out two brass field pieces and fired a salute, and in the evening procured a few musicians and a [illegible] her with the Confederate "national" air of "Dixie."

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies can be had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

And they'll throw greater streams than old '2' or new '4.'

Soldiers that look like B. B. Pioneers.
I've Tools made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful T[illegible]
Corrective and Alterative, of [illegible] in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers, Fortifies the System against the evil effects of unwholesome water, invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels,
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, [illegible]
Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER S STOMACH BITTERS This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less [illegible] forms of Indigestion Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation [illegible] by irregular action of the [illegible] and secretive organs
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS [illegible] merits which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re[illegible] and re[illegible] them
Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant [illegible] manufactured from [illegible] and [illegible] materials, and entirely free from the acrid [illegible] present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

[From All the Year Round]

There is no country in which one feels so helpless as in [illegible] that [illegible] every one is inclined to help you. Unless you get a valet de place who speaks F[illegible] or English, or an interpreter of some kind, you are at a complete loss, and distances being very great in towns, you may wander for hours without finding the place you seek. But if you do get an intelligent interpreter, and an intelligent isvostchik, or driver, which you can manage by paying well, there is the danger of your pay putting something in their mouths which steals away their brains.

One day I was driving through Moscow with a friend, and our valet de place, who spoke English, having [illegible] it as a prisoner in the Crimea, got drunker and drunker at every place we stopped at, in a manner visible to the naked eye. "You beast," said my friend, who was somewhat fiery, "you're drunk." "No, sir," answered the Russian, with a good-humored stare, "not drunk yet, not very drunk. Shall be later, when you pay me." In a weak moment we got rid of this linguist, and trusted ourselves to the mercy of our driver. We were sufficiently masters of the language to desire him to take us to an address phonetically written for us. We trusted to be forwarded on from stage to stage, of our city pilgrimage, by [illegible] on whom we called, who generally spoke F[illegible]. So we went to call on Monsieur Douboff, a gentleman to whom we carried letters.

During the drive we arrived at the conclusion that our driver was also drunk, as evidenced, not from the [illegible]ness, but from over care in driving. In R[illegible] the laws on hackney drivers are very strict, and the penalties on accidents very severe. Drunk hackney-drivers are therefore educated to a normal state of intoxication, during which they ply their trade with much more accuracy than when in their exceptional moods of sobriety. Our driver [illegible] drunk, and we were perfectly [illegible] danger.

On arriving at M. Douboff's house we learned [illegible], that he was in the country, at a [illegible] Park, a summer suburb of [illegible]. It was only [illegible] five in the afternoon [illegible] to continue our researches. We [illegible] requested the secretary to explain to our [illegible] the whereabouts of M. Douboff's house.

Our [illegible] the court-yard we found the carriage where we had left it, but the driver, while holding the reins, was [illegible] with his face on the box, his back naturally to the horse, fast [illegible].

We [illegible] him with our sticks, shouted in his [illegible] than the [illegible]. He got up, seated [illegible] on the box, [illegible] for a moment, [illegible], his head on the splashboard—[illegible] the reins [illegible], but according to [illegible]. Once [illegible] the [illegible] alive, not only to the [illegible] awake, but of [illegible] to him. We ex[illegible] our [illegible] us that, [illegible]

[illegible], and as we knew the way to [illegible] Park, and found we were going [illegible] ourselves considerable. At length the fast-trotting [illegible] town of, [illegible] as in [illegible] by a railing [illegible]. Upon one of [illegible] we drove, but no [illegible], nothing of the [illegible]. The driver, in [illegible] sobriety, [illegible] knew where Monsieur [illegible] not tell, but we were driven to some other house, [illegible] tired, it was [illegible] that if [illegible] we would re[illegible] had we found this [illegible] "Dom Douboff." We [illegible] good faith, [illegible] a few [illegible] and rang some time, [illegible] of the wheels of our [illegible] some [illegible] who spoke a little [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] was in the right, we want [illegible] this wild [illegible]. If we had only [illegible] been four miles from home, [illegible] we didn't know, [illegible] a word of the language [illegible] and if this [illegible] had [illegible] it would have shown [illegible] M. Do[illegible] originated [illegible] friend to [illegible] at all, [illegible] my position [illegible] his side [illegible] knowing [illegible] from the [illegible] we saw a gentleman [illegible] smoking, [illegible] "Ah, [illegible] who [illegible] the road." [illegible] his hat, and with an ad[illegible]

"You see [illegible] We [illegible] here to find [illegible] with the carriage; [illegible] Douboff lives, [illegible]?" "I do not think Monsieur Douboff lives here, but I will ask," [illegible] the stranger politely; and [illegible] he left us with his two [illegible].

"It is a long time that you are in Russia?" said one of the [illegible], [illegible] more of a for[illegible] the gentleman.

"No, [illegible] few days," answered my friend, and he said not [illegible] "how well you [illegible]," was the reply; "but my [illegible] it very well. He lived three years in [illegible]."

"[illegible] in every likely place," broke in the [illegible] "but in vain [illegible] in this neighborhood."

"Oh [illegible] what are we to do?"

"[illegible] of the [illegible] gentle[illegible] where we might find a [illegible]. We do not know our road, and we [illegible] ask it."

"There are no droskies nearer than Moscow."

"Oh!" [illegible] my friend again, and in such a [illegible] no one could resist a smile.

"Well, [illegible] if I make a proposal; but as you are quite astray will you come and drink tea at my house? I am sure my mother will be [illegible] to see you."

"Certainly [illegible] will," [illegible]

"Meanwhile," he continued, "I dare say I can find a [illegible] to go to Moscow to fetch you a [illegible] he can find a [illegible]."

The invitation was so frankly given that we [illegible] our fear of [illegible], and accompanied [illegible] our new friend. The [illegible] was very [illegible] one, like all the [illegible] of R[illegible], though there was a good deal more order than is usually the [illegible]. The upper servant was a Frenchman, and he had evidently drilled his subalterns out of the [illegible] style of [illegible] out of which they had scarcely been emancipated. The room on the [illegible] was full of the [illegible] and [illegible] of art which people can only collect by [illegible], little pictures, with [illegible] from Giotto or Bento [illegible] photographs, white [illegible] marble vases, and some [illegible] of Spa and Tonbridge ware. A [illegible] Russian [illegible], in the [illegible] and the garden beyond was [illegible]. The mother, to whom we were introduced, had all the charm of the traveled Russian grande dame. We [illegible] in the course of conversation [illegible] had occupied several posts of im[portance] in the Russian diplomacy, and she had [illegible] Prince Talleyrand, Pozzo di Borgo, [illegible] and Clancarty, and [illegible] of that army of celebrities, who lived before the [illegible] the death blow to [illegible] eminence. And the whole family con[illegible] dignity, which are so [illegible] in Russian as in [illegible]. There was a [illegible] the whole [illegible] that resembled old acquaintance and friendship. The young ladies sang us songs in Russian, the ditties wild and gay which you hear from the gipsies, national melodies, and well remembered airs from Italy and France. Nothing could make me better pleased with Russia than the ease and cheeriness of this evening, so the droschky which we now found, had to wait for us a long time.

We had early presented our hosts with our cards. In a strange country let me advise the traveler to carry with him a good supply of cards photographs. For a small civility a card is always much appreciated, while a photograph is a sufficient recompense for a service. In Russia the photographs are very good. There is something in the air which makes them flattering. Our hosts had bestowed them liberally on us—a likeness of our host, of his mother four of his sisters in different attitudes, besides groups and vignettes. He came for my friend's.

"You will, I am sure, gratify us by giving us yours?" said our host; and the ladies put in a claim also for their albums.

Of course we desired nothing better, but, alas! we had none with us. Previously to leaving St Petersburg they had been taken by Mr Marrick, a Scotch photographer who resides there, and they were to be ready against our return.

"But, if you will allow us, we will send them," I said. "We return to St Petersburg to-morrow."

"So soon," said they all, in a tone which flattered us.

"So soon," we replied, with sentiment, "alas! yes."

"But you do not know our names," said one of the ladies. "I had better write them down clearly, with our address; and as you have so many of our portraits, I will make them up into a packet, with our names, so that you shall not ther forget us nor our promise."

We could only reiterate our thanks, our promise and our desire to be useful in England. The photographs were duly packed up with the address and name of our kind hosts, the latter being utterly unpronounceable and impossible of acquirement under some weeks of study. My friend, who had a breast-pocket, deposited the packet safely therein.

So we drove on to Billet's Hotel at Moscow, jubilant with our pleasant evening. The next morning we left for St Petersburg. The journey is twenty-four hours. You are given large quadrangular carriages, with sofas all round, and tables in the midst. You play at whist during the day. At night you sleep. At the stations you eat capercailzie and blackcock. You drink tea, if you like, or if you prefer anything stronger, [illegible] provides you with champagne, and Chateau Yquem stands ready in purity. Late in the evening we had supper. At the next station we had tea. At the next a glass of Kummel; and then we wound up our watches, and curled up on our sofas for the night.

As my dose was sinking into sleep, I was [illegible] by the vision of my friend flitting about anxiously, as though in search of something.

At last he awoke me.

"You haven't seen my [illegible] coat?"

"Your great coat? No."

"Then by Jove! I've lost it, with my pocket-book, containing £100 circular notes, and our friends' photographs and cards."

And sure [illegible] it was lost and not found again. We telegraphed, we wrote, but in vain. We described our friends to every one we met, in hopes of [illegible] their pardon, but equally without [illegible] we have been laboring under the [illegible] the most ungrateful, ill-bred and treacherous giaours that ever inveigled hospitality under the guise of [illegible] foreigners. Non Angli, sed [illegible]. They know our names, and we don't know theirs, and if we receive our deserts our cards are [illegible] pilloried with opprobrious epithets on the walls of that [illegible] drawing room in Petroffski Park.

Our only hope is, that they [illegible] may [illegible] where the [illegible] worth [illegible] than it was. So Russian [illegible] and friends [illegible] of this intimation.

A Millionaire Private.

In a [illegible] of the late Elias Howe, Jr., the inventor of the sewing machine, we find the following in [illegible]:

At the [illegible] when Mr. Howe had avowed his intention to [illegible], his coachman had [illegible] the [illegible] thing to wit: as the [illegible]. He was a [illegible] Irishman named Cahill, past the age of military service as [illegible] by law. Upon hearing his employer's [illegible] he [illegible] and [illegible] upon the [illegible], he cried out, "Put my name down, too! I can't bear to have the old man go alone." So down went the name of M[illegible] Cahill, [illegible] next to that of Elias Howe. [illegible] and [illegible] about [illegible].

For four [illegible] the Seventeenth Connecticut [illegible] the Government was so [illegible] for money that no pay [illegible] to the troops could be [illegible]. One day a private soldier came quietly to the [illegible] in Washington, and as [illegible] there to be attended [illegible] his [illegible] to wait his turn. [illegible] of, Col. W[illegible]

"N[illegible] [illegible] for you?"

"I [illegible] to see about the pay [illegible] Connecticut."

The pay[illegible] that a paymaster [illegible] without money, and that a [illegible] could furnish [illegible] to him [illegible]

"I [illegible] how [illegible] money it will [illegible] my [illegible] two months' [illegible] you will tell me, I am ready to furnish it."

The officer stared with astonishment, and asked the name of the soldier, who was no other than Elias Howe. On referring to his books, Colonel W[illegible] found that the sum required was $31,000. Upon [illegible] the information, the private made a draft for the sum, and received in return a [illegible] and promising reimbursement when the Government could furnish the money.

Two or three days after, at Fairfax Court House, the regiment was paid. When Mr. Howe's [illegible] was called, he went up to the paymaster's [illegible], received $28 60 of his own money, and signed the receipt [illegible], "Private Elias Howe, Jr." After rendering all the service which a man in his physical condition could render, he reluctantly asked a discharge, and returned home. He used to say to the soldiers:

"I've got to leave you, boys. I'm of no use here; but never mind, when your time is out come to me at Bridgeport. I'm building a large sewing machine factory there, and I shall have plenty of work for those who want it."

Many of his comrades took him at his word, and until his death were at work under him in various capacities.

A Lesson for Dad.—An old gentleman farmer who had two or three very pretty girls, was so very anxious of his charge that he would not permit [illegible] to keep the company of young men. However, they adopted the following experiment to enjoy the company of their lovers, without the knowledge of their father.

After the old man had retired to rest, the girls would hang a sheet out at the window, which was quite a distance from the ground, and the beau would seize hold of the sheet and with the assistance of his lady love, who tugged lustily at the sheet above, would thus gain entrance.

But it so happened, that one evening the girls hung the sheet rather early, for the old gentleman, by some ill wind was blown around the corner and spying the sheet, could not conjecture the meaning of it being there. He took hold and endeavored to pull it down. The girls supposing it to be one of their beaus, began to hoist and did not discover their mistake until the head of the old man was level with the window, when one of them exclaimed:

"Oh, Lord! its dad!" and letting go their hold, sous came the old man on the gravel below, dislocating one of his shoulders, which convinced him that his effort to make old maids of his daughters was not a matter so easily accomplished, and with drawing all opposition to their [illegible] company he was soon a father-in-law.—The Ruby.

Treasure Production.—An English statistician reports that in 1865, the mineral producing countries of the world yielded 659,587 pounds of gold and 4,000,000 pounds of silver. Of gold, California and the adjoining mineral districts produced 216 000 pounds. Australia and New Zealand, 191 000, Russia, 69,500, South America, 34,000, Southern Asia, 25,000 of silver, Mexico produced 1 700,000 pounds, the United States, 1,000,000, Peru and chile, 496,000; and the rest of Europe, including the British Isles, 526,000. Estimating the value of the metals at present market values, the yield of gold for the year was not far from $125,000,000, and of silver $25,000,000.

Waiter Girls.—A New York p[illegible] says: The waiter girls in New York—two in ten are "pretty"—average $5 per week and m[illegible]. This gives about $3 for clothing and sundries. Four in ten break down the first year, the next four the second year, the ninth gets married the third year, and the tenth, muscular and wiry, still bears the japan on the fourth. They are underpaid, over worked, are mostly poor, very generally good, and only rarely inclined to gorgeous sleek and wickedness. There are plenty of so called [illegible] men to help [illegible] to their wickedness.

The Augusta (Ga), Chronicle and Sentinel advises the people of Georgia to refuse employment, support, aid or patronage to those negroes who voted for the convention. No attention has been paid in the North of England to the sanitary condition of the manufacturing streams. No laws forbid the pollution of the waters by the mills, and this pollution is now without precedent, and inconceivably bad. With few exceptions, the streams run with a liquid, which has more the appearance of ink than of water. The water is pure enough for drinking purposes in the higher part of the country, but it begins to deteriorate when it reaches the woolen mills, and grows fouler and fouler, till the stream has to be abandoned as a source of water either for domestic supply, or for manufacturing purposes (otherwise than furnishing power) and is looked upon and treated as little [illegible] than an open drain. HENLEY'S ROYAL BALSAM.

AS A

FAMILY MEDICINE

IT IS

WELL AND FAVORABLY KNOWN,

RELIEVING THOUSANDS

FROM

COUGHS, COLDS, Bronchitis, ASTHMA, CROUP, HOARSENESS, WHOOPING COUGH, Influenza, AND ALL DISEASES OF THE Chest and Lungs.

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time, and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects. The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the [illegible] for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it.

Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent of [illegible] of Oregon.

MIRACULOUS CURE.

Dr. Henley—Dear Sir: I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife. She had been afflicted with a severe cough for several weeks, which had [illegible] a dangerous feature for which many physicians have been trying with [illegible] any material benefit, and all they [illegible] failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I [illegible] for the worst, in her present condition. The cough appeared to be worse at night, she could get no [illegible] when Mr. [illegible] of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam; all other remedies having failed, I concluded to try it, and I [illegible] two bottles. Strange to say, by the time I gave her three spoonfuls of the Balsam she got [illegible] and sleep, a thing she had not done for three nights previous. By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked. Its effect was truly miraculous as the cure was effectual. Hence, I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted, and it [illegible] astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit, and, I might say magical effect, is not more in use. My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house.

Vancouver, March 1, 1867. H COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 16, 1867

Dear Dr. Henley—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal B[alsam] has done for me. For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose. Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here,) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam, and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more. And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured. I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man. I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been. Yours truly,

WILLIAM DOTY.

From Sophia M. Holman.

Dear Dr. Henley—It is my duty to inform you and the public, what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children. Two of them had a very bad cough and cold. I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning, and that was all that was needed to cure them. I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was. I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant, and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy, as it acts like magic on children. What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician. I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now. I shall always recommend it to all my friends, for I consider it a b[lessing] and Godsend to mankind.

Yours truly, SOPHIA M HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business, and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale. But Dr Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all. In fact we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other. During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does, as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had. I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma. We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction.

BELL & PARKER,
Druggists, Oregon City

From W. F. Barber.

Dr. Henley—Dear Sir: I had the Asthma for the last four years, so bad that it came near choking me. I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good, till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam, which on several afflicted with the same disease has performed wonders. I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since and I really believe that I am perfectly cured, anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease.

I am Yours truly

W F BARBER

From J. H. Morril.

Dear Dr. Henley—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public, for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now-a-days that I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine. I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years, I coughed and wheezed for an hour at a time. I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and on this coast all to no purpose. I could get no relief and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world. I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me and before I had used up four bottles the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody; my wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it. My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it. I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam and I conscientiously recommend to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial.

I remain yours, truly,

J H MORRIL
